VOLUNTARY REGISTRATION WILL OPEN SOON FOR BLAIRMORE WOMEN

Organization has been commenced in Blairmore for the registration of women between the ages of 16 and 65 under the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women.

This scheme of voluntary registration was started May 25th, 1939, so that the women of Canada may be in a position to render their nation intelligent and efficient service at short notice in periods of national distress, caused by various untoward circumstances such as earthquakes, floods, tornadoes, crop failures, forest fires, grave economic depressions, epidemics, war, etc.

War, a national emergency, is with us, and the completion of the registration of the Canadian women is more than ever necessary. The government is already using information from eastern registrations. When 15 interpreters were needed and a large factory sought additional women to turn out uniforms for soldiers, both demands were met through the V.R.C.W. The Red Cross in the east has also made use of the registrations to contact voluntary workers.

The registration, when completed, will give a national picture of the training and capabilities of all Canadian women, and of their willingness to serve in any national emergency. This does not in any way conflict with registrations which have already been undertaken by other organizations, but on the contrary will be of great assistance.

The following is a copy of the questionnaire to be filled in when registering:

1. Are you a British subject? 2. Place of birth? 3. Married, single or widow? 4. Age group (16-18; 18-25; 25-40; 40-50; 50-65). 5. Occupation? 6. Religion? 7. Are you employed? 8. Where educated? (public school, high school, technical school, university).
9. If children, how many under the age of 16 years?
10. Could you take children or adults into your home temporarily? Now, or in an emergency? How many? Free, or for payment? 11. What sex, race or religion would you prefer? 12. Are you willing to have your home inspected and visited for this purpose? If so, by whom?
13. (a) Is your eyesight normal? With glasses? Without glasses? (b) Is your hearing normal? (c) Can you be active on your feet for six hours daily?
14. Have you been occupied (a) In business? (b) In organizations? (give particulars).
15. What experience or training have you had in managing or organizing holiday or other camps, or recreational groups or public institutions? 16. What experience or training have you had in catering, buying or preparing food in large quantities?
17. What qualifications or technical training have you? For example—air mechanic, air pilot, bookkeeper, chemist, dietitian, filing clerk, first aid worker, motor mechanic, physician, nurse, dentist, dental mechanic, dental nurse, telephone, telegraph or radio operation (code) or technician, typist, secretary, shorthand writer, translator, intelligence work, censorship, laboratory technician, surveyor, practical nurse, laundress, architect, teacher.
18. What languages other than English can you (a) speak (b) read (c) write?
19. Can you knit? Crochet? Sew? Tailor?
20. Have you registered with any organization for service in the event of an emergency? (give particulars).
21. What training or experience have you had (a) In commercial preparation of food? (b) Operating farm machinery? What kind? (c) Farming (general) (truck) (fruit) (poultry) (dairy)? (d) Shearing sheep? (e) Wool processing? (f) Commercial fishing? (g) curing, canning, marketing, inspecting fish, etc.?
22. What training or experience have you had in manufacturing or inspecting hospital supplies, clothing or munitions, or, in any factory work? (give particulars).
23. What training or experience have you had in fitting shoes?
24. Can you drive a car? Kind of license? (chauffeur or private driving). Do you own a car and would you be willing to use it in an emergency?
25. Do your circumstances permit you to live away from home? In Canada? Abroad?
26. Have you ever served in an active or reserve capacity in naval, military or air services? (give particulars—service, rank, unit, etc).
27. Would you like to secure training for any national emergency? (For example: motor mechanic, emergency first aid work, map reading, radio telegraphy and signalling, commissariat duties, sanitation work, service clerical work, anti-gas instruction, intelligence work or censorship. Specify).
28. Do your circumstances permit you to give regular full time services? With or without remuneration?

A registration booth will be opened within a few days. The place of booth, dates of registration and further information will be given in next week's issue of this paper.

CANADIANS UNITED!

* * *

A single, united people—with a common determined purpose—Canadians are today engaged in the serious business of war.

The Wolf of Europe is running amok. Until he is run down the peoples of every nation in the world are denied even the contemplation of peaceful lives. Obsessed with a fanatical notion of racial domination, he threatens to destroy everywhere the institutions and customs and decencies which Canadians are determined to cherish in their own land.

The Canadian people have undertaken to do their share in the war which must end the mad career of Hitler. In this undertaking we are determined—above all else—to be a united people.

PUBLIC MEETING CALLED

A public meeting, under auspices of Crows' Nest Chapter, I.O.D.E., will be held on Monday, October 16th, at 8 p.m., in the Sartoris hall in Blairmore, for the purpose of organizing a war service league to work in conjunction with the I.O.D.E.

VOLUNTARY REGISTRATION OF CANADIAN WOMEN

The South Alberta committee report very satisfactory progress in registration. Mrs. S. J. Shepherd, who is organizer for the southern part of the province, has secured the co-operation of the following women to act as general conveners for the five federal ridings: Miss Barbara Kennedy, Macleod; Mrs. A. J. N. Terrill, Medicine Hat; Miss Hazel McCrea, of Hanna, Acadia; Mrs. J. J. Dow, Redleer; Mrs. M. G. Dover, for Calgary east and west and Bow River. The sub-conveners are, Mrs. T. W. Robertson, High River; Mrs. Lineham, Okotoks; Mrs. Morton, Midnapore; Mrs. Dyson Phelps, Turner Valley; Mrs. M. W. Fegler, Millarville; Mrs. Mary Morrison, Cochrane, and Mrs. W. Barr Murray, Morley.

It is to be hoped that any women (especially in the more isolated districts) who can give their services to this organization work will write to the district convener and offer her support. Help put the V.R.C.W. over with a bang. It is a free-will offering from the women of Canada to their country. There is no compulsion; no woman is asked to register if she does not want to do so. There will be no record of women who do not register. Canadian women's qualifications in war service, registered through the channels of the V.R.C.W., will be kept on file at the bureau in Ottawa.

Already the government has called upon the V.R.C.W. in eastern Canada for information gained through the registration of women. Recently fifteen women interpreters were needed, while others were sought to turn out soldiers' uniforms in a large factory. Through the questionnaire, women may be located for all manner of services.

After having to be postponed three times, the annual interscholastic track and field meet was pulled off successfully at the local stadium on Tuesday of this week. All schools of the district were represented. List of winners will be announced later.

LETHBRIDGE PRESBYTERY

The Lethbridge Presbytery of the United Church of Canada held their regular fall session in Trinity United church, Macleod, on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, with a full representation of ministers and lay delegates. Richards, Hillcrest.

At noon on Tuesday the lay members met at a luncheon in the church hall, followed by the regular business meeting, with President Schrumm in the chair, and E. R. J. Forster acting as secretary. The meeting was addressed by Rev. Dr. Aitkins, of Winnipeg, and Rev. Dr. Dobson, of Vancouver.

Forming part of the Presbyterial report, it was resolved that the church as a whole offer its services to the Red Cross. Another resolution placed upon the church the duty of lessening human sufferings entailed by war where possible.

Addresses were given by Rev. J. M. Pritchard and Rev. W. H. Irwin.

At the close of the Tuesday afternoon meeting, a banquet was served to all visiting clergy and lay delegates by the Ladies' Aid of Trinity United church.

Ed. Womersley, former member of the town council, and former employe of the West Canadian Collieries, has entered upon his new duties as town works foreman.

The Lundbreck branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was organized at a largely attended meeting on Saturday last, with Mrs. F. Lynch-Staunton as president, Mrs. A. Noel Cox as vice-president, and Mrs. J. T. Walters as secretary-treasurer. They will hold a dance on November 3rd to raise funds. Monthly meetings will be held. The organization meeting was presided over by A. M. Densmore.

At the annual convention of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association at Edmonton last week end, H. J. Ford, editor of the Lacombe Globe, was elected president, succeeding R. C. Jessup, of Macleod. Other officers are: R. L. King, Claresholm, first vice-president; L. D'Albertanson, Chauvin, second vice-president, and Miss Hazel McCrea, Hanna, secretary-rtesaurer (re-elected). Directors: A. R. Ennis, Leduc; G. C. Duncan, Drumheller; Charles Clark, jr., High River; Floyd Cary, Bassano, and Gordon Neil, of Fort Saskatchewan. First prize for weekly papers of over 750 circulation went to the High River Times, and for less than 750 circulation to The Coleman Journal. The H. G. McCrea Memorial Award for the best editorial page went to the paper established by the late H. G. McCrea, now being published by members of his family at Hanna.

DAIRYMEN ORGANIZE

The majority of dairy proprietors of the Crows' Nest Pass towns last Friday organized as an association to adopt a standard of prices and regulations in the retailing of milk. Fourteen were present, and William Oliver as elected president, P. DeGroote vice-president, and Norman M. Anderson, proprietor of Meadow Sweet Dairies, secretary.

One of the objectives of the association is to improve the standard of preparing milk for the retail trade. Though there are many milk dealers, licensed by the government, there is still what might be termed "bootlegging" by owners of cows stabled at the back of a lot, and whose feeding habits are liable to lead to contamination.

In order to effect economies, the association will aim to buy feed and other essential requirements on a co-operative basis. One important feature discussed was the loss of profits through bottle breakages and bottles not returned. The cost is from 9 to 12 cents a bottle.

The establishment of the business on a sound basis and the safeguarding of the public from the dangers of contaminated milk will be the chief aims of the association, besides ensuring that business-like trade customs prevail between the dealers and the customers. The members claim, and rightly so, that they give a twelve-months' service at fair prices, while in the summer "bootleg" dealers cut in on the established trade, and there is no safeguard against contamination imposed on that type of milk seller.

Membership in the association is open to all licensed milk dealers.

The first act of the dairymen's association was to increase the price of milk. Due to higher prices paid for feed, bran, shorts, hay, bottles and disinfectants, the secretary-treasurer was instructed to communicate with the board of public utilities in Edmonton with regard to setting a fair price for milk in the Crows' Nest Pass. Pending advice of the utilities board, the association agreed upon the following milk prices, effective October 15th, with no discounts allowed other than those allowed for quantity purchases: quart 11c, representing an increase of one cent per quart; pints 6c; cream will sell at 50c per quart and 25c a pint; buttermilk will cost 10c a quart, and cheese 15c per pound.

Customers purchasing more than three quarts daily will be entitled to a gallon rate based at 12½ per cent discount. The trade discount was set at 12½ per cent.

The organization meeting was held at the Greenhill hotel, with representatives from Coleman, Frank, Bellevue, Hillcrest and Blairmore in attendance.

LOGAN—PASSMORE

The rectory of St. Anne's church was the scene of a very quiet wedding on Thanksgiving Day, October 9th, when Miss Bessie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Passmore, became the bride of Mr. James Logan, only son of Mr. and Mrs. James Logan, of Cranbrook. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mildred Passmore; the groom being supported by Mr. Malcolm Bellanger, of Cranbrook. After a short honeymoon, the happy couple will be at home to their many friends in the R. Moore residence in Cranbrook after October 15th.

The second of a series of Patriotic whist drives being held under the auspices of Crows' Nest Chapter o. the I.O.D.E., will be held in the local Union hall on Wednesday night next, October 18th, starting at 8 o'clock.

Hon. Lucien Maynard, Alberta minister of municipal affairs, has joined the Canadian Officers' Training Corps unit at the University of Alberta for graduates, and hopes to qualify for the rank of lieutenant.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

An inventory of the research resources of Canada, planned by the national research council, is to be taken at once by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Germany's share of Poland brings the number of Slavs in the Nazi Reich to 29,000,000, or 27.6 per cent. of the total population, it was estimated at Paris.

The whole sugar output of British Guiana up to August 1940 has been bought by the British government it was announced at Georgetown, British Guiana.

Egypt will support the democratic powers in wartime whole-heartedly, Dr. Ahmed Maher Pasha, leader of the pro-government Saadist party, declared during an extraordinary session of parliament.

The Polish consulate-general at Ottawa and the various consulates throughout Canada "will carry on" despite the conquest of their homeland by Germany and Russia, it was learned.

Provisions of the United States Neutrality Act do not apply to contribution of funds for assistance of Ducks Unlimited in Canada, it was announced by Lieut.-Col. T. Newcomen, Alberta director of Ducks Unlimited.

The field is being canvassed for formation of a Canadian military ski unit which would be trained in the Rocky Mountains, it was disclosed. Military ski men perform valuable work in reconnaissance, patrol work and sniping.

British Columbia teachers will have to use their own initiative in bringing history and geography textbooks in the schools up to date with the fast-moving events in Europe, the provincial department of education said.

Paris Always Dresses

Air Raid Costume Is Designed For Speed And Warmth

What the well-dressed woman in Paris wears now includes clothes for an air raid. She is prepared for the moment when the sirens wail and the lights fail. She can duck into a shelter as well attired for this occasion as for her last ball.

With most noted fashion houses closed, specialty shops and department stores are catering to women air-raid customers. Middle of the night alarms develop a technique of rapid dressing. Among hasty get-ups which are liked are ski clothes. Air raid-minded ladies are finding tight-ankled ski trousers and windbreaker jackets with tight wrists the last word in chic coverage and quick getaway.

Some prefer shooting suits with four-pocket coats of corduroy or leather. Gas masks are shouldered with these instead of guns and flashlights. The big pockets are handy for ammunition like handkerchiefs, gloves, sandwiches, and playing cards. Warm sweaters, scarves, heavy-soled boots easy to get into are useful accessories.

Among practical head coverings displayed in shops are hoods, heavensent for sleep-tousled hair. A smart hooded garment especially designed for air-raid sorties is made of thick soft wool in well-named midnight blue. It is long-sleeved, snug, belted and buttons all the way from neck to ankle. No underthings show when this garment is worn and it goes on in record time.

Find Relics In Pool

Iron Kettle And Andirons Belonged To Famous Novelist

When the Nova Scotia government took over as a museum the old home of Thomas Chandler Haliburton, early 19th century novelist, officials decided to comb the countryside for furniture which once graced the home of the creator of Sam Slick, the roving Yankee peddler. But they didn't expect to find relics as near the century-old house as Piper's Pool.

A workman cleaning up the grounds struck an object in the exposed bed of the pool with his pick. Investigation disclosed the iron kettle which swung from a hook in the open fire in the old Sam Slick kitchen. Further search turned up the andirons that stood in front of the fire and an iron plate.

The cauldron, as solid as when it was new, was burnished and hung over the fireplace as it hung a century ago. The andirons were also restored to their proper place in the house that has become a mecca for tourists in the Windsor part of Hants County.

Strawberries wear their seeds on the outside of their fruit bodies.

New Regulations

Instructions Govern Sending Cash Or Goods Out Of Canada

The post office request persons intending to mail goods or other property out of Canada to please make note of the following regulations of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

The Foreign Exchange Control Board has been established by Order in Council under the War Measures Act for the purpose of regulating and controlling transactions in foreign exchange and foreign trade.

Everyone mailing parcels or letters out of Canada containing goods or other property (such as currency, securities or other evidences of ownership or indebtedness) should take note of the following requirements:

1. No export of goods by mail is permitted unless an application in Form B is submitted to the Postmaster at the time of mailing.

If no foreign exchange is to be obtained for the export, a license in Form D must be obtained in advance through a chartered bank, and submitted to the Postmaster with Form B.

2. No export by mail of property other than goods (e.g. cash, bonds, stocks, etc.) is permitted, unless a license in Form K has been obtained in advance through a chartered bank, and submitted to the Postmaster.

3. No export license is required in the following cases:

(a) Bank drafts, money orders, letters of credit, etc., purchased from a Chartered bank (or from the post office).

(b) Gifts of a value not exceeding $25 sent out of Canada. This exemption applies to any person only once in any calendar month.

The mailing of any letter or parcel containing goods or other property to a foreign address without inspection by the Postmaster will, if the contents are exempt, result in needless delay; if the contents are not exempt such mailing is a violation of the Foreign Exchange Control Order, and renders the offender subject to penalties. In all such cases, therefore, the letter or parcel should be submitted to the Postmaster before mailing.

Have Marvellous Skill

Men Who Look After Underground Works Do Remarkable Job

New York engineers and the common working men are to be congratulated in carrying out a remarkable job of work in Sixth Avenue without disturbance of the city utilities.

They were laying a new branch of the Independent Subway and in the course of their work they had to contend with 1,000 miles of wires, pipes and conduits serving electric power, gas, water, steam heating, telephones, telegraph and other services. The task was one of great delicacy and was potentially very dangerous. All these underground works had to be lifted, diverted, replaced, changed or otherwise handled, and a single mistake might have caused tremendous floods or escapes of gas with serious consequences to a densely populated neighborhood besides the stream of vehicular and pedestrian traffic. There were, for instance, fifteen different services of gas mains. Only one small error of judgment was made which took days to remedy, and the final join was rectified by the inserting of a quarter-inch washer. In making the replacements, more modern conveyors were put in, the net result being that the thousand miles of pipes, etc., now occupy less than a quarter of the space they took when they were laid down many years ago.

London is even more honeycombed with underground works than New York. There is a much greater labyrinth of tunnels owing to the vast subway system, where there may be as many as four stations one above the other and all connected by cavernous systems of escalators or passages. Truly the skill of engineers and workmen who operate in dark recesses below the streets plays a wonderful and valuable part in enabling the public to travel and to serve their homes, factories and offices with electric light and power, gas, sewage, telephones and other facilities.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Using A Robot

The Adelaide Racing Club is experimenting with a robot that shouts "Go" at the instant the barrier is lifted for the start of a race. It is the invention of E. T. Booth, of Adelaide, Australia, who invented the Nuffield iron lung and the Booth electrocardiograph. The invention is intended to synchronize the starter's voice ad the lifting of the gates.

Tanners of Japan report that the skin of a large whale will produce as much leather as 100 cattle.

England now has over 4,000,000 licensed motorists.

To Observe Centenary

Nova Scotians Are Planning To Celebrate Interesting Event

Members of the New Glasgow, N.S., board of trade are preparing to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the first railway in Canada to use metal rails. Although the railway was opened in Pictou county in September, 1839, the centenary will be observed next year.

The railway ran between Albion Mines through New Glasgow to Granton. Part of the old road is still used for transportation of coal through the industrial districts.

Eleven years before the iron rails were laid, coal was transported along wooden rails in cars drawn by horses. Then the iron rails were put down and the locomotive Sampson was the first to be used.

The Sampson with another like it, the Albion, were kept for years in the museum of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad after being taken out of service. Several years ago they were returned to the province where they first ran.

The board of trade is planning a pageant and the unveiling of a plaque in connection with the centenary. The anniversary was to be observed this year, but because of the visit of the King and Queen it was set back a year.

Whistle While They Work

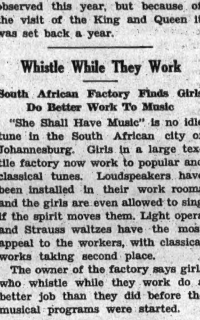

South African Factory Finds Girls Do Better Work To Music

"She Shall Have Music" is no idle tune in the South African city of Johannesburg. Girls in a large textile factory now work to popular and classical tunes. Loudspeakers have been installed in their work rooms and the girls are even allowed to sing if the spirit moves them. Light opera and Strauss waltzes have the most appeal to the workers, with classical works taking second place.

The owner of the factory says girls who whistle while they work do a better job than they did before the musical programs were started.

HOME SERVICE

BEAUTIFY YOUR HOME WITH CHEERY PLANTS

Grow Bulbs, Vines in Water

Delightful what you can do with a "water garden!" Graceful plants, flowering bulbs grow beautifully in water, need little care.

The luxuriant vine in our picture sprang from a lowly sweet potato—and this season of the year potatoes are just right for vine-growing.

Other root plants such as carrots and turnips make a pretty growth too. Just keep the lower third of each vegetable in water as our diagram shows.

You may have continuous bloom in your home by starting bulbs in water every few weeks. The gorgeous autumn crocus in our picture flowers within a month. Set the bulb in fibre or pebbles, let the water touch only its bottom. Follow with the paper white narcissus, the creamy Chinese sacred lily, the colorful hyacinth, other bulbs.

And before frost, cut buds of flowers, chrysanthemums in your outdoors garden. Put in water indoors, they'll bloom for weeks.

Easy, too, to grow beautiful potted plants successfully by knowing simple pointers. Our 32-page booklet tells how to raise ferns, flowering plants, bulbs, foliage plants, vines, how to make a "water garden". Gives directions for repotting, fertilizing watering.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Making Plants and Flowers Grow Indoors" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each:

Predicts Heavy Winter

Chief Lemme of the Yosemite Indians has undertaken to save the U.S. weather bureau a lot of trouble by predicting all at once that there will be an early fall this year and a heavy winter. He bases his prediction on the yellow-jackets, of which there are many; on the field mice of which there are lots, and on the squirrels of which there are more.

One excellent home-produced food which Canadians seem to neglect is cheese, the consumption of which averages only 3½ pounds.

Soldier's Life Better Than In 1914

Plenty To Eat And In Great Variety For The Canadian Soldier Of Present Day

While life in the Canadian army may not be "all beer and skittles," in many respects it is a great improvement over the atmosphere and conditions which prevailed in 1914, when the first expeditionary force was recruited and sent overseas.

Nowadays the medical examination is more rigid than it used to be. It is not as easy for mani-invalids or men with physical defects to get in the army as it was 25 years ago.

While the boys in the 1939 army are getting only the training necessary to render them fit as speedily as possible, they are being given plenty to eat and in great variety. There is no stinting in the commissariat department.

No one is going to be hungry, even after plenty of physical jerks, when the cook is allowed a list of comestibles totalling just under 4½ pounds per soldier per diem, and that there is plenty of variety and choice can be seen from the following menu for one day in one of the Western Canadian training camps: Breakfast—Oatmeal, hot cakes and syrup, bread and butter. Dinner—Roast veal and dressing, corn, mashed potatoes, bread pudding, tea, bread and butter. Supper—Cold meat, potatoes, stewed prunes, tea, bread and butter. No wonder the boys in uniform put on weight.

As for uniform, the 1939 streamlined soldier is being put into a new khaki uniform which will eliminate entirely the necessity for polishing brass buttons and rolling puttees, the bete noir of every recruit in 1914.

More system and energy is being put into the matter of providing recreation for the recruits now than at the onset of the former great war. Not only is recreation being organized in barracks but outside, the Y.M.C.A. and ther organizations are giving much thought to the provision of entertainment for the soldier.

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

Golden text: For we have . . . one that hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Hebrews 4:15.

Matthew 4.—Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted 40 days and 40 nights, he afterward hungered. And the tempter came and said unto him, If thou art the Son of God, command that these stones become bread. But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Then the devil taketh him into the holy city; and he set him on the pinnacle of the temple, and saith unto him, If thou art the Son of God, cast thyself down: for it is written,

He shall give His angels charge concerning thee:

and,

On their hands they shall bear thee up,
Lest haply thou dash thy foot against a stone.

Jesus said unto him, Again it is written, Thou shalt not make trial of the Lord thy God. Again, the devil taketh him unto an exceeding high mountain, and showeth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; and he said unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan; for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. Then the devil leaveth him; and behold angels came and ministered unto him.

Paintings Are Safe

Valuable Pictures Will Be Kept In New York Indefinitely

Because of the international situation, foreign museums which have loaned paintings to the masterpieces of art exhibition at the New York world's fair have asked exhibit directors to keep the paintings until further instructions are sent.

Cabled requests to that effect have been received from directors of the Louvre, the National Gallery of London and the Rijksmuseum of Amsterdam.

Pictures in the art exhibit from these three museums represent $2,500,000 worth of art.

Perry T. Rathbone, director of the exhibit, has informed other lenders that no shipments will be made either now or at the close of the fair, without specific directions.

"We have no objections to retaining custody of the foreign pictures as long as the owners may wish," he said.

Collected Insurance

Here's a hole-in-one that paid 50 to 1. Two years ago Ellis Knowles, Sr., of Rye, N.Y., insured himself and his son, Ellis, Jr., for $100 through Lloyds of London against making a hole-in-one. They each paid a dollar-a-year premium and had thus paid in $2 when Ellis, Jr., scored his ace on the 203-yard twelfth hole at Apawamis.

POPEYE AND HIS SPINACH

Some people can see propaganda in everything. That may be the reason for the story that Popeye is a sort of Public Relations Officer for the spinach growers. But whether the idol of the junior movie-goers has any interests to serve, or not, the fact remains that it isn't as hard to make the youngsters eat their spinach as it used to be.

Maybe too, there is something in Popeye's faith in spinach because it has been proved that this vegetable does contain iron. Though it is not advised for all people, generally speaking, spinach has high nutritive values.

Spinach is no new discovery and in the old days there were doctors who prescribed it for many things—though their theories are no longer held, in the light of scientific knowledge. Doubtless imported into Europe at the time of the Crusades, spinach was already well-known during the Renaissance. In the 18th Century it was regularly hawked in the streets of London. In those days, the plant was prepared by chopping it up, boiling it and making it into balls, the liquid being squeezed out with the hands. Then it was mixed with butter, oil or vinegar and thus prepared was considered a delicacy. To-day the usual method of home preparation is boiling it whole and retaining as much of the water as feasible so as to be eaten with butter, pepper and salt. Most canned spinach, of course, is chopped up.

In the Eleventh Century, Arabian doctors prescribed spinach for many conditions especially of the throat and the chest. Two centuries later, spinach enjoyed a period of great favor as a laxative and intestinal cleanser. To-day it is known that spinach has a high iron content. It also contains small quantities of organic salts of potash and lime and is relatively rich in sugar. Its nutritive value, superior to that in most green vegetables, makes it important in anaemia, convalescence and debilitating diseases. This tonic property is increased by its richness in chlorophyll, the green coloring matter of vegetable life which is a powerful agent in the treatment of blood poverty. Increasing the bulk of the products of digestion, it is laxative.

While spinach, therefore, is healthful food for most people, it is not advised for arthritis, gouty rheumatics or those with gravel, kidney or bladder stone.

Protecting Priceless Films

Record Of Historical British Events Sent To Safe Place

The National Film Library of the British Film Institute sent into Sussex for safety during the war, nearly 2,000,000 feet of films of priceless historical value, dating from the earliest days in 1895 to the present day.

They include the full-length film of the Coronation of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth, the Coronation procession of King George V., the funerals of Queen Victolia and King Edward VII., troops going out to the Boer War and the Great War, and the historic Canadian and American tour of the King and Queen in the early summer.

The Perfect Footman

There is a story about the "red" who knocked at the door of a house in Park Lane, London—which has always stood for the quintessence of aristocracy and exclusiveness—and shouted to the footman who opened the door:

"The revolution is here" only to be met by the chilling—and class-conscious—reply:

"All revolutions must be delivered at the tradesmen's entrance."

GEORGE MARSH

"They're wonderful looking dogs, Alan," she agreed, with a swift glance at the Ungavas, but her eyes could not long leave the tall figure of the man; they lingered on the dark, crisp hair, the bold features and the laughing deep-set eyes.

"Better not try to get acquainted too quickly, eh, Shot?" He seized an ear of the slate-gray who stopped in his romping to nuzzle Alan's head. "Where's John?"

"Chopping wood, he'll be back for lunch."

"Lunch? Say, Heather, I'm starved," said the traveller. "I ate a bite at daylight and have been crossing these hills all the morning."

"You poor man! Come over and I'll feed you!"

Lafer as the savory odors of corn bread, caribou and tea filled the cabin, the fierce yelping of the Ungavas brought Alan on a run to the clearing.

"Call off your dogs! By the Lord Harry, Alan Cameron, you're a partner after my own heart! Look at those pups! Welcome back, my lad!" The great voice of John McCord boomed at Alan as he quieted the younger dogs.

"Alan, you're good for sore eyes, lad! I've been worried about you!" Holding the smiling Cameron at arms' length, the giant tested the other's arms and shoulders. "Fit to fight for a king's ransom, boy! Tough as a tamarack! My, but I'm glad to see you back."

"There's your dogs," grinned Alan, "straight from the Nastapokas. Like 'em?"

"Like 'em?" cried the delighted McCord. "They're beauties! How old?"

"About fourteen months. They'll be full grown, almost, by spring."

"Coat and bone and size, they've got everything, Alan! Now you and I own the world!"

Alan searched the blue eyes of the older man. Could it be true that John McCord was a murderer—a man who would kill his wife? He could not believe it.

"You've forgotten one thing, John," he finally said.

"One thing—what d'you mean?"

"The police!"

McCord's brows knotted beneath the gashed forehead. "Police? What have the police to do with us?"

The big man looked hard at the other. "What's on your mind, boy? You haven't been followed from Fort George? They don't know I'm here?"

Alan nodded. "That's just it. The police know!"

McCord thrust his puzzled face close to Alan's. "The police? You mean police at Fort George?"

"Yes."

"What in thunder are they doing there?"

"Looking for—you."

"For me?" The blond giant threw back his head and roared as Alan watched with sober face. "You serious? What—what's all this mystery? I don't understand."

"John," said Alan, "when I was at the Revillon Freres I dropped a bill you gave me from my tobacco bag. I've—I've been a poor partner to put your trust in."

"Well, suppose you did, you didn't tell anyone where you got it?"

"No, but the police saw it."

The big man scratched his head, then turned an uncomprehending look on the other. "You say there are police at Fort George looking for me? What am I wanted for?"

"Murder."

Alan watched the other's eyes as a lynx watches a wood mouse. But a look of blank amazement was their sole expression. "Who've I murdered?"

"That's why I wanted to keep it from Heather. They say at Fort George that you killed your wife."

McCord's face suddenly flushed under the bronze. Then his eyes hardened to ice-blue as he sucked in a deep breath. "Murdered—my wife!" He took a step and turned, running his fingers through his thick hair. "She's dead—then—murdered?"

Alan waited as his friend paced to and fro deep in thought. This was not the way a man would act who had been suddenly told that the police wanted him for crime. Rather, McCord seemed mystified, puzzled.

"Where's Noel?" McCord suddenly demanded, stopping his pacing.

"I left him with the police in the headwater country of the Mad River. I slipped them and travelled overland with the dogs."

John McCord scowled into Alan's sombre face. "The police came with you up river?"

Alan nodded. Then, drawing McCord back beyond earshot of the cabin, he swiftly related what had happened on his trip to Fort George. As he talked, the face of the older man slowly changed from a picture of frank amazement to one of stark rage.

"Did you believe their stories that I killed my wife?"

"Before I begin, I want to ask you a question," said McCord, swallowing hard, as he fought for self-control. "Did you believe their story that I killed my wife?"

"That was not the question—whether you killed your wife," retorted Alan. "You had saved my life. You were here with Heather, alone, deserted by your Indians. I had given you my promise to come back. That was enough."

McCord's blue eyes lit with satisfaction. "You were going to keep your word whether it was with a wife-killer or not, eh?"

"I wouldn't think about it. There was Heather, along with you, needing help. You had saved my life. It was enough."

"Partner, give me your hand."

The two men gripped hands as their eyes unwaveringly met.

"I told you I knew a man when I saw one," continued McCord quietly. "You've proved your mettle."

"We ought to keep this from Heather—if we can." Alan's gray eyes probed the giant's face as he went on. "Does she know—about—what happened? What brought the police—here?"

McCord stood with hands on hips, his bold features knotted in a scowl. Slowly he shook his head. "No, she does not know, Alan. Poor kid, she does not know." Then he took the other's arm. "You're hungry, so am I! We'll go in and eat. Later we'll take the net up to the island and set it. We've got four big dogs to feed, now. Then I'll tell you a story."

CHAPTER VII.

It was a happy girl who repeatedly filled the plates of the two hungry men with caribou ribs, corn bread and beans while Alan told of his trip up the coast in search of the dogs. Of Fort George he spoke little.

"It was great luck, John, getting pure Ungavas. There's no better strain in the north. We've got a team that will take a thousand pounds, next spring, on the crust."

"Alan," said the giant, leaning across the table, a smoldering flame of triumph in his blue eyes, "with those dogs to get out with, a year from this winter, we'll own the world, I tell you, lad! We'll own the world!"

"Own the world?" Alan's dark brows lifted.

"When we have a good talk, you'll understand," assured McCord. "Heather, Alan and I are going to set the net at the island. We need fish for the dogs."

The girl's fine brows drew together as she looked her disappointment. "Why can't I go, too, dad? You'll take Alan away and stay till supper."

"You'll have plenty of chance to see him later. We've got some plans to talk over now."

Alan followed McCord down to the canoe wondering if the story he was about to hear would shake his faith in the man he had promised to accompany into the blue tundra that rolled away into the north. But what did it matter? He was in the same pass as John McCord. By tricking and deserting the police, he, also, had become a hunted man—an outlaw.

They paddled up to the island and set the gill-net in the thoroughfare on the side of the nearest shore, where the fish travelled at night. Then, lighting their pipes the two sat down on two small boulders facing each other.

"First I want to know about the police and Noel and how you got away with the dogs," said McCord.

"I told them we had met you in the headwater lakes of the Mad River. So Noel and I took them there. We always camped with water between us to keep the dogs apart. Four nights back, Noel started for the forks with the canoe and, at daylight, I struck straight south cross-country with the dogs to warn you. And here I am!"

Makes A Good Story

Pilot Received Lecture On Poise But Had Last Laugh

Whether itis true or not, it's a good story:

When Viscount Swinton was minister for air in the British cabinet, he took the controls of a new seaplane. He was accompanied by a young pilot of the Royal Air Force.

Having taken off from Southampton, they flew over most of Southern England. At Reading airport Lord Swinton circled lower and lower, just as if he intended to land. The young pilot got so alarmed he finally reminded his lordship that any attempt to land a seaplane on land would result in disaster.

The big man said nothing but sent his plane higher and finally returned to Southampton. There, he landed on the water, and, in a kindly, amused, partly condescending manner, gave his young companion a lecture on keeping his poise. He tried to convey the idea that the commander-in-chief of aircraft for Great Britain really knew the difference between a sea plane and a land plane. "No harm done, old chap," he said, "but don't lose your head so easily the next time, what?"

Whereupon Lord Swinton removed his helmet and stepped out grandly into 50 feet of water.

A Different Picture

When we remember that in the last war Germany had Turkey on her side, had beaten Russia to her knees by 1915, had all of Rumania, held Czecho-Slovakia as she does now, had an infinitely superior navy, was fighting on French soil in the West, not on her own, and had not entered the war after years of semi-starvation as is now the case, the picture is far from dark for the Allies.—New York Post.

Yellowed With Age

Ancient Bible Discovered In Halifax Public Library

Yellowed with age and the dust of centuries, an ancient Bible has been discovered by librarians in the Halifax Public Library. Mystery as to how the book came to this country is only deepened by the little human interest told in a scribbled note on the fly leaf.

The Bible is in French and is said to have been published by John Calvin, 16th century religious reformer. Librarians believe it was printed before 1550. Although there is no record of a Bible published in French by Calvin, it is known that a Frenchman named LeFeve made a translation at the time of the Reformation.

It contains both the Old and New Testaments. Many books are in it that do not appear in later translations of the Bible. It is iron-studded and shows traces of having had iron clasps.

The little note on the fly leaf reads: "This Bible, published by Calvin at the time of the Reformation, is a curiosity well worth preserving in the library, and is offered by a poor woman recommended by the Rev. Mr. Uniacke as very respectable, though in reduced circumstances, indeed in a state of destitution. She is willing to dispose of it for the small sum of 30 shillings, but it is to be hoped she will obtain more through the subscriptions of shareholders, even at the small sum of one and three-pence each."

The list of subscribers throws no light on who was the respectable lady. It is known that the Mr. Uniacke referred to was a member of a prominent Halifax family.

Blind Soldier In Halifax Hospital Keeps Busy And Cheerful

Should you be feeling discouraged or disgruntled think of Walter H. Callow.

Mr. Callow is a patient in Camp Hill Hospital, Halifax. Injured in an R.F.C. plane crash in 1917, since 1930 he has been completely incapacitated by spinal trouble and arthritis. He lies constantly in one position. He cannot use his hands. He is blind. Eight years ago, his wife died, leaving a young daughter to be cared for.

Mr. Callow has a hobby. By radio he keeps himself posted on current happenings, and composes verse to cheer up his friends. He sells some of his poetry, too.

His nurse tells us that "the spirit and courage of this patient is a source of inspiration to all who have the privilege of his acquaintance."

If you think your lot is a pretty tough one, you might, now and then, remember Walter H. Callow.—Maclean's Magazine.

A Famous Song

Rule Britannia First Presented In England 200 Years Ago

Next year is the two hundredth anniversary of the first public presentation of "Rule Britannia," the second line of whose chorus, "Britannia rule the waves," is so often mis-sung. This song was the finale of the masque "Alfred," music by Dr. Thomas Augustine Arne, liberetto by Mallet and Thomson, which was presented in honor of the accession of George I. Arne was one of many instances where geniuses have followed their natural bent despite parental opposition; he received his musical education clandestinely, as his father was bitterly opposed. He became composer to Drury Lane theatre and was the first to introduce female voices into oratorio choruses.—Toronto Star.

Polish History

Fifth Partition Of Battle Scarred Country In Less Than 200 Years

Invasion of Eastern Poland by Soviet Russian troops and the increasing penetration of German armies from the west threatens the fifth partition of Poland in less than 200 years.

With a history as a kingdom extending back to 966, Poland was a great power from the 14th to the 16th centuries. She conquered Prussia and resisted the onslaughts of Cossacks, Tartars and Turks. In 1610 she even occupied the Kremlin, a fortress of old Czarist Russia. Internal dissension weakened Poland and in the 18th century she disappeared as an independent state.

In that century, Poland was partitioned three times, in 1772, 1793 and 1795. In 1772, Poland, by two treaties, was forced to give up one-fifth of her territory and one-fourth of her population to Russia, Prussia and Austria.

Russia took 1,586 square miles in the east, with a population of 55,000. Austria obtained the major portion of Galicia, without Cracow, an area of 1,710 square miles and a population of 816,000. Prussia got the maritime palatinate and the northern half of Great Poland, a total area of 620 square miles and a population of 378,000.

Remaining nominally an independent state, Poland attempted to reassert her independence after the death of Frederick the Great, in 1776.

Prussia and Russia split, and Austria and Russia began a war with Turkey. Poland raised an army, allied itself with Prussia in a mutual assistance pact, and, with its frontiers guaranteed, reorganized its government as a hereditary limited monarch. A conspiracy between Polish nobles and Catherine II. of Russia brought an invasion from Russia, and Prussia declined to help Poland.

This led to the second partition on Sept. 23, 1793, in which Russia obtained all the eastern provinces of Poland, from Livonia and Moldavia, about 250,000 square miles.

Prussia received Dobrzyn, Kujavia and the major remaining portion of Great Poland, with Thorn and Danzig. Poland was reduced to one-third of her original size and left with a population of about 3,500,000.

In the third partition, which followed an unsuccessful revolt led by Gen. Thaddeus Kosciusko, a hero in the American Revolution, Poland was destroyed as a nation. Austria took Western Galicia and Southern Masovia, Prussia got Western Masovia and Warsaw. Russia took the rest.

After Prussia's defeat by Napoleon in 1806, Napoleon reconstructed the Prussian provinces of Poland as a nominally independent state called the Grand Duchy of Warsaw. In 1809 Western Galicia and Cracow were added to the Duchy. But the Congress of Vienna, in 1815, after the defeat of Napoleon, confirmed the 1795 partition, and Poland disappeared as a state until 1918, when its independence was proclaimed.

The Allies of the first Great War recognized Poland's independence in the Treaty of Versailles, and modern Poland emerged with 101,196 square miles obtained from Russia; 17,889 square miles, comprising Pomorze and Poznan, from Germany; 30,194 square miles along the southern frontier, from Austria, and 6,973 square miles from Prussia.

In 1921, after defeating an invasion by Soviet Russia, it obtained additional territory near Minsk, and also the Ukrainian district of Polesia, from Russia. In 1923 it added 10,422 square miles in the north, taken from Lithuania, and in 1938, in the partitioning of Czecho-Slovakia, it obtained 405 square miles.

The Last Steel Baron

America Lost Good Citizen In Death Of Charles M. Schwab

To compute what Charles M. Schwab made for himself and other men in terms of money would give a poor idea of the man. It is a better measure to say that none of the great figures of American industry put in a fuller life or a happier one than he. In him were combined dreaming and energy, luck and planning, gambling and cold calculation. He was one of the geniuses born to the Steel Age, the last of Carnegie's young men. From a boyhood in one of the smaller works he rose to be head, in succession of the greatest three steel corporations in America—Carnegie, United States and Bethlehem. The last of these was his darling for he raised it from rust to a billion-dollar concern. But with him money was something to spend, whether in new enterprises, a great chateau on the Drive, a collection of paintings or diverse charities. Of German ancestry, he refused Germany's offer in 1914 to pay him $100,000,000 if he would not sell steel to the Allies. How he worked when work had to be done was shown when the British Admiralty asked him to build 20 submarines in 15 months and he built them in less than six months. But it was not merely success that attracted men to Schwab. His character was lovable, his humor everlasting, his optimism always high. This last of the Steel Barons wrote a remakable chapter in the story of American business and opportunity.—New York Sun.

KEEP HOMES SAFE

It is a great source of satisfaction to know that much thought is now being given to the problem of home safety. The problem is serious and it is complex. When an accident occurs on the highway, everybody knows about it. There is an opportunity to fix responsibility. Usually there is a trial and frequently damages are collected. Accidents in the home can be hidden. Home accidents are a reflection on the home or the victim, and are not attended by trials of any type. Legislation can accomplish certain safety factors in industrial and highway safety, but education is the only force that will bring about home safety.

Most of us cherish the ideal of the sanctity of the home—an ideal that is dear to every heart. We really resent anything that threatens to invade the privacy of our homes. Every man's home is his castle, and few persons are willing to admit that the castle is not perfect.

Mothers are children's most important teachers. A child is in school only a small part of his time, and he has lived at home at least several years before he spends one day at school. Experts tell us that these are the years in which children learn very rapidly and by imitation.

What a child learns before he enters school is determined not by what his father and mother know, but by what the adults do day by day.

We have a right to manage our homes. We are free to have our homes as we want them to be. Let us accept the challenge to keep our homes safe. We have a real opportunity.—Mary May Wyman.

BUDGETING WITH FISH

It's hard to tell at the moment just what curtailments will have to be made in food budgets and menu planning during the war period. But we can be fairly sure, however, that the cost of Canadian fish will remain reasonable. Fish, therefore, will increasingly become a staple of family diet which will be no hardship. Fish can be the mainstay of the most appetizing, health-giving meals at less cost than many other foods. Now is the time for housewives to begin collecting a file of fish recipes and experimenting with new ideas in fish cookery.

Here is a dish known as "Quick Meal," the cost of which is practically negligible:

"Quick Meal"

2 lbs flaked canned salmon, 2 cups coarsely crushed crackers, 2 cups milk, 1/2 tsp salt, 1/3 tsp pepper, 2 tbsp butter. Heat milk with seasoning and butter, stir in crackers until all are wet, and add fish, mixing it with the crackers, stirring as little as possible. If desired, 2 eggs, beaten, may be added to the wet cracker mixture and the whole heated until the egg is cooked. Then the fish flakes may be added.

A marriage of very much interest locally is planned to take place very shortly.

FERNIE CITY BAND VOLUNTEERS SERVICES

Several weeks ago, Bandmaster F. Vernon, of the Fernie City Band, offered the services of his band to the military forces of Canada in the present crisis. Since then he has received several letters from the Ministry of National Defence, Ottawa, but up to the present time nothing definite has been arranged. Mr. Vernon was with the 31st Infantry Battalion during the last war, and served overseas with this unit from 1915 to 1918 as a sergeant major, and is hoping now to be able to take his band in the service.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the band last week it was decided not to enter for competition at the Crows' Nest Pass Musical Festival, if there be one in 1940. The expense entailed has been just a little more than the band can stand. Last year Mr. Vernon brought the Band and the Little Symphony Orchestra to the festival, and for meals, transportation, etc., it cost in the neighborhood of $175. Such an amount of money is hard to raise nowadays. The band has a membership of 43, and the orchestra will start off again next Monday with a membership of 37. Mr. Vernon will lead both musical aggregations.

BE A SAFE DRIVER

Answers to questions appearing in last week's issue:

1. On the average your car will travel 14 feet while you are thinking about putting on the brakes, and 28 feet after you have applied the brakes—a total of 42 feet. Most people forget about the "thinking" or reaction time.

2. To the right. Always turn in the same direction as the skid.

3. The "crazy" driver saved exactly 3 minutes, or 15 seconds per mile.

4. Walk on the left side, facing the oncoming traffic. In dusk or darkness carry something white, wear light colored garments, or carry a light.

5. First, clean the outside of the lenses; second, the inside of the lenses; third, the bulb and reflector. If lights are still dim, look at your battery conditions and wire terminal fastenings.

6. Six seconds is the minimum passing time required. However, you need some leeway, so you should have 9 to 10 seconds. With this knowledge and long practice you can learn to avoid being involved in this type of accident while passing.

7. Depress you lights.

8. In the ash can. Remember, too, that even new tires of unequal pressure can completely nullify the "self equalization" of hydraulic brakes. A 2-pound variation may be vital at high speed.

DEATH RAY MACHINE

Dr. Antonio Longoria, of Cleveland, Ohio, who in 1924 confirmed reports he had perfected a "death ray" machine, says today it was possible such rays would be used in the present war, but that he would never reveal his secret to help create such an apparatus.

The inventor, who built a machine in 1923 that he said killed pigeons on the wing at four miles, destroyed it because of its danger.

"It's quite possible that someone may stumble across the particular wave I used," he said. "The machine killed small animals, and it could kill human beings just as easily. The ray lies in one of the unexplored frequency bands in the vicinity of the X-ray. It kills painlessly, without burns, by changing the blood to a useless substance—as light changes silver salts in photography."

DEAR HITLER—YOURS, BENITO

This war would end at once if Mussolini has any influence with Hitler and would address him as follows:

Dear Adolph: I have been doing my best to help you out. Through my press I have been laying the blame for the war on Britain and France. I tell them that the issue was Poland, but as Poland has fallen into your grasp it is foolish and criminal to continue the war. They say that so long as you are at the head of affairs in Germany there is no use making terms with you, that it would only mean further crises and alarums and excursions and that they are prepared to deal with Germany, but not with you. They say quite openly that your word is not worth a damn and you must admit that you have given them good reasons. Now, my suggestion is that you quit and go back to your painting as you have expressed a desire to do. You did a good job for your country without getting it in trouble until now. You can do it another service now by quitting while the quitting's good. our successor and I, together with two representatives from Britain and France, and a fifth, Mr. Roosevelt, perhaps, could settle everything satisfactorily. You would have to give up Czechoslovakia, except the Sudetenland (you didn't want the Czechs in your Reich, anyway, did you?) and there would have to be a reconstitution of Poland (this would be our only serious problem). You may think I am selfish in making this request. I am. Italy does not want to be dragged into your war, neither do I. Be a good fellow now and resign. You are the man who started this war. You are the one man who can stop it now. Yours truly, Benito."—H. C., in High River Times.

THAT HUMAN TOUCH

We feel impelled to note two very human touches from the Old Land just before the outbreak of War in connection with the evacuation of children, expectant mothers and blind persons from London and other populous centres:

(1) The authorities urged those being evacuated not to leave their pets behind, but in the event of this being impossible to notify the authorities;

(2) A commentator observed that the parents of evacuating children seemed not to be particularly anxious as to where their children went or what might happen to them because "they placed implicit trust and confidence in the teachers" in whose charge their children were confined.

Yes, even when the harrowing anticipations of bombings with attendant bloodshed and massacre, and with responsibilities sufficient to make normal persons shrink, persons in high places found time to steal a thought for the welfare of helpless birds and domestic animals. We can't think that the idea behind it was purely sanitation and health; had it been so it would not have been a request, but a cold matter of fact order. What a lesson, to the children particularly, in kindness and consideration to animals, more impressive and effective than a whole book could be and, because of the time of setting, more to be remembered than admonishment and teaching without example. The little girl, cuddling her kitten or carrying the bird cage; the boy leading Toby by a cord tied to a homemade rope collar will have indelibly impressed for future recollection the sense of kindliness to dumb creatures of the highly placed officials of a great Empire. A nation with such officers of humane sensibilities and "atmosphere" has reason to be confident that mankind must right itself, sooner or later. We refrain from commenting on the second statement; it speaks for itself.—A.T.A. Magazine.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Oct. 9.—Alberta industry's self-organization in order to do the utmost to help the Dominion in prosecution of the war is under way this week.

A list of Alberta natural products which can be used as war supplies has been handed to the federal government, and business men are making arrangements to draft plans by which those products could be kept flowing.

Grain, oil, meats and meat products, hides, coal and dairy products are among the chief products being considered first, as well as a wide range of manufactured goods. There are also benzine and toluene, used for explosives and derived from coal; methyl alcohol and formaldehyde, hydrogen, ammonia and nitric acid, derived from dry gas; premium motor fuels, aviation fuels, solvents, athylene, glycerine and glycol, accessories to the production of war materials; salt which can be used in gun cotton; chlorine for water purification; gypsum, low-grade phosphates, and bentonites for use in chemical industries; and even a special moss, known as sphagnum, which is useful for surgical dressings.

If industry is not being "conscripted," such as Social Credit-ers demanded along with general conscription, it at least is enlisting voluntarily, observers commented.

Although it is not generally known, and has not been widely publicized, finance also has been "conscripted" by the Dominion, as far as was possible, without actual confiscation of wealth and consequent disappearance of that wealth.

The foreign exchange control board set up at Ottawa provides the conscription, for by its rule capital cannot be exported from the country except under license, and then only for such purposes as will serve the nation's interest best in time of war.

Exchange can be controlled only by the control of exports and imports. Imports must be paid for in foreign exchange, and exports are paid for in foreign exchange. No one may export without turning the foreign exchange over to the government, and no one may import without a government permit if payment in foreign exchange is involved. By such means, in addition to sharp increases in personal and corporative income taxes, and in excess profits taxes, the government has conscripted finance and industry.

Chartered banks have suffered as a result of those measures, for they lose a profitable business in foreign exchange. Instead of retaining it as their regular commercial business, at a profit, they do it now gratis for the Dominion's foreign exchange board, because the banks were "conscripted" by being appointed, along with the post offices, as the "authorized dealers" of that board.

Messages from Ottawa showed, however, that the banks gave up that business voluntarily and willingly as a war-time sacrifice. Foreign exchange experts of all chartered banks went to Ottawa and assisted officials of the Bank of Canada in drawing up the regulations which took the business away from themselves, and reportedly have formed a permanent committee to continue that co-operation. The extent of the banks' co-operation became known only when the Dominion government and the foreign exchange board extended thanks to them.

In Alberta, J. R. Sweeney, deputy minister of agriculture, and O. S. Longman, field crops commissioner, said on their return from Ottawa that the expansion of agricultural production and a review of the whole farm production system in the Dominion were discussed at an interprovincial conference, with a view to supplying Great Britain, as well as Canada, with necessary agricultural supplies during the war.

Politics had almost disappeared from view in the province as a result of the war, and some parties had declared a truce. John I. McFarland, chairman of the Unity Council, said, however, that his group would hold its organization together to promote the cause of united action and thought among the people in war. Meantime, the federal government's disallowance of the re-legislated Limitations of Actions Act, passed by the Alberta legislature in the spring after the previous similar act had been disallowed, created hardly a ripple.

Members of the Alberta section of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association held their annual convention here Friday and Saturday. The convention was regarded as one of the most successful in the association's history. President H. T. Halliwell, of the Dominion association, was presented with a handsome mantel ornament, and Miss Hazel McCrea, secretary, was presented with a trophy for editorial page excellency, and also in commemoration of the work done for the Association by her father, the late H. G. McCrea, of the Hanna Herald.

The marriage took place at Macleod on Saturday of Miss Doris Jackson to Mr. Vincent Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Walters, of Lundbreck.

By a vote of 367 to 307, employees of McGillivray and International mines at Coleman favored affiliation with the United Mine Workers of America on Tuesday.

The Enterprise this week sent samples of Christmas Greeting Cards to regular customers in Nova Scotia. For years past we have been filling orders for Nova Scotia points, and satisfaction is always expressed.

Visitors to town during the week included Mrs. James Cousens and daughter Ruby, of Bellevue.

Canadian chartered banks have taken up the Canadian war loan of $200,000,000 two-year two per cent notes at par.

The strike of 275 men, which had been in progress for about a week at the Lethbridge Collieries Limited mine, was settled on Tuesday night, work resuming on Wednesday.

OLD WAR-TIME SONGS AGAIN REVIVED

The British "Tommies," marching off to war, prefer the martial songs their fathers made famous, with variations to fit the occasion, it appeared this week.

"Tipperary" still is the most popular, and is unchanged from World-War days. But "Pack Up Your Troubles" has become

"Pack up your Goebbels in your old kit bag and Heil, Heil, Heil;
While there's a Ribbentrop to light your fag, smile, boys, all the while;
What's the use of Goering? He never was worth while;
So pack up your Goebbels in old Hitler's bag and Heil, Heil, Heil."

The War Office purportedly termed the new version "jolly good."

"Mademoselle from Armentieres" is gone, but her daughter is here. The new version starts:

"Everything's tres bon, we're off to meet Yvonne, the daughter of Mademoselle from Armentieres."

The above are now highly recommended to local sing-song parties.

CANADA'S FIRST NEWSPAPER

The first printing press and the first newspaper in Canada was established in Halifax, N.S., in 1751 by one Bartholomew Green and later by John Bushell. This first Canadian paper was know as the "Gazette," of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Although of English manufacture, that printing press did not reach Halifax direct from its factory. It had been part of the plant of the pioneer printing shop of the continent established at Harvard College in 1639 by Stephen and Matthew Day only nineteen years after the landing of the pilgrims at Plymouth. It and the type set up by the first compositor in Canada, Bart. Green, were taken to Halifax in 1751, two years after the foundation of the city by Cornwallis. Unfortunately, before he could realize his objective of printing a newspaper for Halifax, Green died in December, 1751.

Bushell, who was a silent partner with Green in the Halifax business, hurried from Boston as soon as he learned of Green's death and thus became the first newspaper publisher in Canada. He lived at Halifax until January, 1761, when he was buried in St. Paul's churchyard.

Mrs. Robert Day, junior, sister-in-law of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by Mr. Robert Day, junior, eldest brother of the bride. After the ceremony, the happy couple travelled by auto to Lundbreck, where they entrained for a three weeks' honeymoon at Victoria, B.C., and other western points. Upon their return they will make their home on a ranch two miles north of Cowley.

Rev. Father Sullivan officiated. Miss Annie Yakubiec, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by the bride's cousin, Mr. Barnart Yakubiec, of Blairmore. After the ceremony, the newly-wedded couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Yagos, after a short honeymoon, will take up residence in Coleman.

Sources Of Peril

Great as have been the results of the campaign against tuberculosis in the Dominion and particularly in Western Canada, there are two potential sources of infection which require careful watching, if the gains which have been made in the past few years are to be consolidated, maintained and extended.

That first the curative methods and later the preventive precautions which have been adopted in recent years to curb this great menace have brought remarkable rewards in general improvement of the health of westerners and in reduction of the incidence of this specific disease is well known. The story has oft been told with indisputable figures and facts to substantiate it.

It will suffice to state here that the tuberculosis death rate in Canada has dropped from 87.6 per 100,000 in 1921 to 59.9 in 1937 and for Saskatchewan, which boasts the lowest death rate from this cause of any province in the Dominion, it has declined from 43 per 100,000 in 1921 to 31.5 in 1937 and in the latter year "one-third of the deaths were among Indians".

Much of this result can properly be attributed to improved technique in treating victims of the disease and as much or more to the inspections which are being made regularly in the schools and other focal points of potential infection as part of the program of prevention which is now occupying the vanguard post in the battle against tuberculosis.

A Dangerous Source

A moment ago it was pointed out that one-third of the deaths from the white plague in Saskachewan in 1937 were among Indians and this gives a clue to one of the two most dangerous sources of infection yet extant. The other is the immigrant, newcomers to the country, some of whom have come from countries where tuberculosis is rife and where adequate steps to combat the disease on the scale adopted in Canada have not yet been put into effect.

Not only is there a danger that the tubercle-riddled Indian may spread —and, in fact, does spread the scourge among his fellow countrymen, but he is a source of danger to the white people with whom he associates. Equally dangerous is the immigrant from some of the European countries, not only to those of his own nationality with whom he may colonize, but equally so to those who are established Canadians by birth or long residence with whom he comes in contact and transacts business.

While the incidence of tuberculosis among Indians has shown a substantial decline since the white man first exposed the red man to its ravages, the fact that one-hird of the victims of this disease in one of the provinces was confined to a group forming an infinitessimally small percentage of the entire population, indicates the necessity for special care to substantially reduce the hazard in this quarter, not only for the sake of the Indians themselves, but also to prevent them from becoming a source of reinfection among the "whites".

Recounting the history of the disease among the Indians in the west, Christian Smith, in a series of articles written as a contribution to the work of the Saskachewan Anl-Tuberculosis League, recently declared that more than one quarter of the Indians of the first generation affected by the epidemic died. The second generation sustained a loas of one-third, but the third generation is showing a much better record.

"Back in 1900", said Mr. Smith, "tuberculosis was so common in Indian boarding schoo:s that 20 per cent. of the pupils around the Qu'Appelle Valley in Saskatchewan had tuberculous glands, not to mention other forms of the disease. In 1921, however, only seven per cent. had tuberculous glands. In 1927 it had dwindled to three per cent. and last year (1937) of 1,511 pupils who were examined in the boarding schools of Saskatchewan only 20 cases of active tuberculosis of all forms were found, which is equal to a rate of 1.32 per cent."

* * * *

Should Be Extended

The lowered incidence of the disease among the Indians during the period from the occupancy of the territory by the "whites" to 1930 is largely attributed by the same writer to the application of the law of "survival of the fittest". Since that time further results have been secured in a health unit comprising two Indian reserves in Saskatchewan, established as such by the federal government. In this health unit since 1930 the death rate from T.B. has declined from 847 to 300 per 100,000. To what extent this can be attributed to the continued operation of the law of survival of the fittest or to the application of health laws and principles, it is yet too early to say.

The work among the white population and the experiment being conducted on the two Indian reservations referred to, combined with the still comparatively high incidence of the disease among Western Indians indicates the necessity for prosecuting this work with increased vigor and the advisability of its extension to the entire Indian population in the west with the prospect that in time the danger of infection among the Indians can be reduced to that among the white population.

Farewell Joke

Clown Bequeaths Top Hat That Contained A Fortune

Gilberto Venturelli, one of Italy's most famous clowns, played a farewell joke on his son by bequeathing to him his top hat.

When the son dashed the hat to the ground in anger, a paper fell out. It was a deposit receipt for 30,000 lire (£350) in the son's name.

Venturelli has opened a restaurant, where he preserves the top hat in a glass case.

Atomic Structure

Smallest Known Neutral Particle Of Matter Has Been Measured

With the help of a ponderous, 75-ton laboratory instrument, two scientists have measured the magnetic strength of the smallest known neutral particle of matter, the neutron.

The measurement is considered of fundamental importance in the study of atomic structure. It may help physicists to learn about how matter is formed.

Prof. Felix Bloch of Sanford University and Prof. Luis Alvarez of the University of California, who collaborated in the work, have announced the measurement as 1.93 "nuclear magnetons."

To reduce the term to ordinary dimensions they calculated it would take 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 (one trillion trillion) neutrons to equal the strength of a small horseshoe magnet.

Neutrons are themselves little magnets. Together with prontons, particles of about the same weight, they make up the nuclei, or cores, of all atoms.

Canadian Radium

Entire Resources Placed At Disposal Of British Government

The entire resources of radium, uranium products and other metals of the same group has been placed at the disposal of the British government for the duration of the war, says the Northern Miner. Officials of the radium industry believe that there are ample supplies of the metal available in the dominion, with ore ready for processing, as well as sufficient refinery facilities to meet any demand that might arise for the metals.

All shipments to points through which the metals might fall into enemy hands have been suspended.

While details of the deal come under the description of "official business" and cannot be revealed, The Northern Miner learns from officials of Eldorado Gold Mines, Limited, sole British Empire producer of radium, that a steady flow of radium and allied products has been moving into the hands of the British war ministry for some time, and that options are held by the British governmen on a large proportion of the Canadian supply for some time to come. Meanwhile the Eldorado refinery at Port Hope, Ontario, has been geared to meet any demand that might possibly be made for war purposes, and could supply radium at a production rate, if necessary, up to eight or ten grams per month.

As a further guarantee of continued steady operations, Eldorado has now a full year's supply of ore, amounting to about 950 tons, in storage at Waterways and Fort Smith, while a full year's quota of supplies are at hand at the mine at Great Bear lake to assure uninterrupted production of raw materials for the refinery.

Results of further exploration to the west of the No. 1 shaft at the mine at Great Bear lake have emphasized the importance of the new discovery of pitchblende ore recently reported on the 800-ft. level. Latest word from the mine was that pitchblende ore had been opened up for a length of 160 feet in No. 1 vein, with the face of the drift continuing in ore. Moreover, a further new discovery of pitchblende and silver has been reported in No. 2 vein, where development has opened continuous ore for a length of 100 feet.

Prominent Journalist

Robert Lipsett, President Of Press Gallery, Dies At Ottawa

Robert Lipsett, parliamentary correspondent for the Toronto Daily Star, died in hospital at Ottawa recently.

Mr. Lipsett was president of the press gallery and had had a lengthy journalistic career in Toronto, Winnipeg, Montreal and Ottawa.

Born in Toronto 49 years ago, Lipsett moved with his parents to Winnipeg, where he was educated at the University of Manitoba. He opened his newspaper career with the old Winnipeg Telegram and later worked on papers in Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Montreal.

In 1929-30 he directed publicity for the Conservative party, later returning to the press gallery, where he was successively correspondent for the Toronto Mail and Empire, Toronto Saturday Night and finally the Toronto Daily Star.

Classed As Hard Laborers

Foreign newspaper correspondents raised no objection when they were told the German Government had classified them as "hard labourers." This meant their weekly meat supply had been doubled, giving them slightly more than two pounds. Hard laborers under the ration system get twice as much meat as white collar workers.

Origin Of Old Terms

The terms "longitude and latitude" came from ancient days when the earth was believed to be grouped around the Mediterranean sea. Since the sea was longer east and west, the word "longitude" was used to denote east-west directions.

Vast Fortifications

Maginot And Siegfried Lines Cost Millions To Build

Can either side break through the vast fortifications between France and Germany.

On one side is France's Maginot line, once called the "greatest man-made defences in the world." On the other is Germany's Limes line—the "Siegfried line", the "Western Wall", the "Wall of Steel" that Hitler has put up to oppose them.

France started her famous fortifications soon after the Great War. Much of the $12,000,000,000 she has spent on defences in the post-war years has gone into the Maginot line. Hitler's vast project, only two years old, has eaten millions of marks, still is eating them. Each nation believes its line excels the other's. The Maginot is generally conceded to be the stronger.

The Maginot line has its underground "earthscrapers", fortifications many floors deep; scores of miles of connecting tunnels; thousands of machine-gun nests; long range guns covering vital positions in Germany, underground hangars for the swift air force that argments the fortifications in France's scheme of defence —or attack.

The line runs from Belgium to Switzerland, about 200 miles; its width varies, and is a secret.

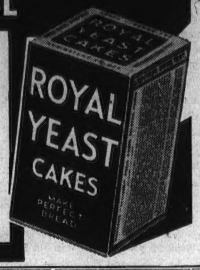

Germany's Limes line has 22,000 "bunkers", from simplest construction to heavy fortifications, many of them cities in themselves. "Whole mountains were moved, forests chopped down," a German military writer has said, "to clear vistas for shooting." Open spaces in the line have been protected, but "the mines have been strewn judiciously". From The Netherlands to Switzerland, his "wall of steel" is perfect, Hitler declared after an inspection tour last year.

Fire Victims

People Should Teach Children The Principles Of Fire Prevention

Last year the Fire Demon numbered among his victims in Canada 263 men, women and children. In 1937, 105 children lost their lives by fire, while in 1938, 118 children's lives were claimed. This is a staggering admission and the responsibility for such tragedies can in many cases be laid directly to the negligence of parents who far too often leave their helpless little ones alone in the house while they visit neighbours or go to a show. These holocausts frequently occur in rural districts where neighbours are long distances away and the parents are unable to reach their burning home in time to save their children from a horrible death.

Every parent should realize that it is his duty to teach his children the principles of fire prevention. They should not be allowed to play with fire, matches should be kept out of their reach and the playing with celluloid toys should be discouraged. By a strict adherence to the use of common sense, parents can thus save themselves the bitter anguish and life-long regret which must be ever present when a child perishes by their neglect.

Interested In Mechanics

Even Before War Ottawa Women Wanted To Take Training

With the intention of becoming ambulance drivers, many Ottawa women are seeking training in automobile mechanics.

More than 30 women applied for the course at the Ottawa Technical School+night classes and registration for the course had not been completed.

Feminine interest in automobile mechanics, however, antedates Canada's declaration of a state of war with Germany. Last fall it was reported many applications were received from women but the course at that time was restricted to men. Later, however, the collegiate board decided to permit women to enter.

According to a survey, the average life of a modern automobile is 8¼ years.

Angry after a political disagreement with his Republican partner, Bruce, Tammany Hall's only Negro district leader, called in 10 men to help him remove his share of the restaurant property.

They divided the tables and chairs equally, then sawed a counter in half and similarly partitioned a mirror, a straw hat—even a roast chicken on a platter waiting to be served.

FARMERS URGED TO MAKE CAREFUL SURVEY THIS FALL

Ottawa.—Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion minister of agriculture, urged the Canadian farmer to make a careful survey this fall of his farm projects in view of the demands war may make.

The minister said in a statement that "on the thoroughness of this fall's preparations will depend in a more vital way than ever before the quality, quantity and cost of his final product a year hence."

Warning the question of increased production requirement in Canada "may clarify itself with alarming suddenness, at which time a definite policy would become possible," he said farm surveys were important from a national and self-protective point of view.

"We shall be too busy to do this next spring. It may be too late next fall."

The three considerations deserving urgent attention, according to Mr. Gardiner, are grain crops and feed supplies, livestock and seed requirements.

He recommended maintaining or improving the present hog production for "bacons, hams and fats are bound to be required in greater volume if the war continues."

It is also important farmers should not change from cheese to butter production for both cheese and bacon production will have an important bearing on Canada's food effort, Mr. Gardiner said.

Services Of Veterans

President Of Canadian Legion Has Been Appointed Director

Ottawa.—Brigadier W. W. Foster, D.S.O., V.D., president of the Canadian Legion, has been appointed director of a newly-created directorate of auxiliary services, the department of national defence announced. The organization, said the announcement, will be similar to that formed for the British forces for utilization of the services of veterans not now able to enlist for active service. It will serve the navy, army and air forces.

The principle to govern the directorate, laid down by Hon. Norman Rogers, defence minister, is that "the service of former members of the forces who are now unable to enlist for active service should be utilized in every way possible."

The authorization, signed by Mr. Rogers, directs that adequate provisions be made for all auxiliary service essential to the welfare of the troops, either in Canada or overseas, such services to include recreational huts and facilities of an educational and religious nature, as well as sports, canteens and entertainments of various kinds.

Army Of Poles

Polish Forces To Fight Alongside Of Britain And France

Paris.—The new Polish premier said that an army of Poles will be formed to fight alongside Britain and France.

Premier Sikorski told correspondents this was the essential task of the new Polish government. He said the new leadership of the Polish forces in effect comprises the war cabinet.

The problem of maintaining an army in France now faces the new Polish government.

Poultry Disease

Saskatoon.—An unknown malady, strangely similar in symptoms to encephalomyelitis in horses, has spread rapidly throughout Saskatchewan poultry flocks within the last three weeks. In some cases in southern areas of the province, entire flocks have been wiped out by this new disease of poultry. Generally speaking, however, mortality of birds affected by the ailment ranges between 25 and 75 per cent.

New Uniforms

Ottawa.—Members of the first overseas division of the Canadian active service force will be first to be allotted the newly-designed uniforms for the force, it was learned. The new, ski-like uniforms, minus brass buttons and puttees, are essentially a battle regalia, it was stated.

Contraband Seized

London.—The information ministry announced that 33,000 tons of goods consigned to Germany were seized by the British contraband control during the week ended Sept. 30. This brought total cargoes intercepted during the first four weeks of war to 289,000 tons.

More War News

Solve Problems Of Censorship Which Have Troubled British Government

London.—Prime Minister Chamberlain, in an attempt to solve the problems of news and censorship which have troubled the government since the outbreak of war, told the House of Commons the press would be granted direct contact with government departments as before the war.

The prime minister named 48-year-old Sir Walter Monckton, attorney-general of the duchy of Cornwall, as the new chief censor. He will have the task of supervising the central distribution of government news at the ministry of information, which will continue to function but on a less all-inclusive scale.

Press demands for direct contacts with government departments, instead of issue of all news through the information ministry, won recognition in the new set-up—but censorship now becomes double-barreled. Department heads will be responsible for the news of their departments, its censorship and distribution. At the same time the present central censorship will be continued. All government announcements will be issued at the information ministry as in the past and also at the various department headquarters.

The improvement expected by the British newspapers is in the dissemination of more news of government activities, which was confined to a "thin, vapid trickle" as one paper put it, during the first month of war.

Inspects Air Force

Lord Tweedsmuir Witnesses A Spectacular Flying Display

Trenton, Ont.—Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada and commander-in-chief of the armed forces, inspected the Royal Canadian Air Force station here and witnessed a spectacular flying display.

Three huge bombers, six training planes and an army co-operation machine swooped, dived and flew in formation over the air station as His Excellency looked on.

It was a demonstration of the quality of Canada's newer planes and the skill of the pilots. His Excellency flew from Ottawa in a large air force machine, lunched in the officers' mess with all the officers of the station, inspected the buildings, witnessed the demonstration and flew back to Ottawa, all in less than six hours.

Most formidable of the craft displayed were a number of fast bombers and all were camouflaged in dull colors. Painted in dull shades of green and brown, the two colors arranged in huge irregular blotches, the machines blend into the landscape when on the ground.

In the air, the dull colors also make the machines less noticable over distances.

The newest bombers have a speed of 290 miles an hour and an altitude maximum of 28,000 feet. They carry oxygen tanks to permit the crew of six or seven to breathe properly at high altitudes.

Anti-Nazi Demonstration

Czechs In Prague Protest Over War Privations

Paris. — Reports reaching Paris said renewed anti-Nazi demonstrations had taken place in Prague, Pilsen and other Czech cities in the Bohemian-Moravian protectorate.

In the former Czecho-Slovak capital, the Gestapo severely repressed recent protests against privations caused the population by the war. Since then pieces of bread rationed by relief authorities have been tossed into the streets by dissidents, with the defiant notices: "We don't want your bread! It's fit for Prussians!"

Definite Part For Veterans

Ottawa. — Veterans of the first Great War have a definite part to play in this conflict by providing a stabilizing and encouraging influence on younger members of the new Canadian active service force, Brig. W. W. Foster of Vancouver, Dominion president told the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Legion.

Keep Shipping Lanes Free

Britain's Blockade Is Effective In South American Waters

Buenos Aires.—Sinking of the British ship Clement in South American waters by a German raider turned attention of Latin America to the possibility of keeping her shipping lanes free of conflict under the "safety zone" declaration at Panama.

Study of the Rhenos Aires port register for August and September showed Great Britain's blockade against German shipping already was drastically effective. The question was whether Germany again would strike back in South American waters.

In September, the first month of the war, three German ships entered the port here and 10 departed, compared to 23 arrivals and 20 departures in August.

Of the 10 Nazi vessels leaving in September, five went only to Montevideo, Rosario and other South American ports. The other five apparently attempted to run the British blockade. Three German freighters were sunk off South America during the month.

In contrast with the almost complete suspension of German shipping, 63 British ships arrived at Buenos Aires and 62 left during September, compared with 65 entries and 65 departures in August.

A similar situation exists in Brazilian and Uruguayan ports. Many German ships are tied up in neutral waters of those countries to avoid becoming possible targets of the British cruisers Ajax and Exeter, main units of Britain's south Atlantic fleet.

WILL PRESENT ALLIED CAUSE IN A TRUE LIGHT

London.—Lord MacMillan told the house of lords that reorganization of the ministry of information would leave him free to address himself to the "real task"—propaganda.

Discussing changes in the much-criticized agency, which is to be decentralized, with most of the dissemination of news transferred to individual government departments, Lord MacMillan said:

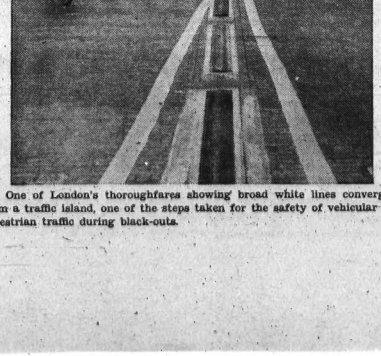

"It may now be asked what are activities for which the ministry will continue to exist? These activities, I have no hesitation in saying, are of high value and importance. They will be the functions described by the unattractive word propaganda. It is unfortunate that the word has acquired so sinister a signification. This war in a very special sense is a war of ideas.

"It is accepted by our people and our allies as a crusade for great principles. It is essential that in season and out of season, at home and abroad, our cause should constantly be presented in its true light."

In addition to gauging the "mood of other countries" and striving to "counteract' insidious propaganda against us," he said the ministry must "keep open all means of communication with countries abroad" and "keep a watchful eye on every movement inimical to our interests."

Lord MacMillan also touched on criticism of British Broadcasting Corporation programs, asserting the responsibility was not his although he could have used his "bureaucratic powers" and stopped broadcasts. He added, "You always have the privilege of not listening, which is one of the greatest privileges I have known in connection with the BBC."

Would Isolate Germany

Believe Mediterranean Will Continue To Be Neutral

London.—The wheels of European diplomacy rapidly are carrying Germany into isolation, despite her apparent close relations with Italy and Russia, usually well-informed British circles claimed on the basis of official pronouncements from Rome and reliable reports from Moscow.

Italy's denial, through the Stefani news agency, that she intends to sponsor a peace bid at present, was taken, together with recent Fascist expression of opinion, to indicate the Mediterranean will continue to be neutral.

On the other hand, the Baltic situation, cloaked in diplomatic obscurity, was regarded with increasing alarm. Developments, it was held, seem to point to the Baltic rather than the Mediterranean, as a future theatre of war.

The Anglo-Franco-Turkish mutual assistance pact, reported initialled at Ankara, is well on its way toward final signature British sources said. In addition there was confidence any eventual Russo-Turkish accord would be limited to the Black sea and would in no way conflict with Ankara's commitments to Britain and France. Finally, reports indicated Russia would give Germany only economic help.

Offers Being Classified

Voluntary Assistance For War Service Is Receiving Attention

Ottawa. — Hon. Norman Rogers, defence minister, said every care is being taken to examine and classify the many unconditional offers of assistance being received at the department of national defence, many of them from veterans of the first Great War.

"These offers reflect the highest credit on those who have made them," Mr. Rogers said. "In every case they are being referred to the responsible authorities for attention."

Although it was obviously impossible to accept all such offers, they were being sorted out so that full advantage might be taken of them as opportunity arises.

U.S. Minister To Ottawa

President Roosevelt To Make Appointment In Near Future

Washington. — President Roosevelt indicated that appointment of a United States minister to Ottawa was a live issue at the moment.

At the president's regular press conference a questioner asked him if he could say when a new minister would be sent to Ottawa. Mr. Roosevelt replied that he had not thought about that problem for a week, and he thanked the questioner for calling it to his attention.

Canada has not had a permanent minister since Norman Armour was transferred to Chile nearly two years ago. For the period of the royal visit in May and June of this year the United States sent Daniel Roper, a former secretary of commerce, to Ottawa. But Mr. Roper accepted only for a 90-day term and left Ottawa at its conclusion.

Contraband Control

Drawing Economic Net More Tightly Around Germany

London.—The British information ministry issued an "eyewitness" account of how the British contraband control works in "drawing the economic net more tightly around Germany."

A British observer wrote that three searching bases have closed the North Sea to contraband vessels and none can enter that area without being searched by the British. A total of 74 ships have been examined at the Weymouth base, the report said.

"Deliberate obstruction has been almost unknown," the account said. It added the goodwill shown during the searching proved it "had not antagonized neutral countries."

Ships have been delayed from six hours to two weeks, it was said.

U-BOAT LANDS CREW OF SUNKEN VESSEL AT EIRE

Dublin.—A German U-boat came up to a pier in broad daylight at Dingle, County Kerry, and landed 28 survivors of the 4,980-ton Greek vessel Diamantis it had sunk little more than 24 hours earlier.

The landing was effected in a calm, almost nonchalant manner, just as if the U-boat were a ferry arriving from some nearby point with a load of passengers.

The crew of the U-boat waved good-humoredly to people standing on the shore of neutral Eire, and the people waved back cheerfully.

After landing the survivors, six of whom apparently were injured, the U-boat slipped out again to sea.

This latest incident in Germany's submarine war against Great Britain's blockade lasted a matter of minutes. It was the first time since hostilities began that a submarine landed the survivors from a ship it had sunk, although there have been instances in which German submarine commanders directed ships to the rescue of crewmen of torpedoed ships.

The submarine, the U-35, torpedoed the vessel not far from the coast of Cornwall, off the Scilly island, and took the crew aboard. Members of the crew said they were treated politely by the submarine captain.

The vessel, listed by Lloyds as owned by D. J. Pateras, of Chios, Greece, was bound from West Africa for Barrow-in-Furness, England. Three torpedoes fired from the submarine at 1:30 p.m. sank the ship. Six members of the crew were said to have been treated for injuries suffered in the explosion at a Dingle hospital.

(Dingle is in southwest Eire on Dingle bay which opens into the Atlantic. Eire has expressed her determination to remain neutral in the war, and under international law belligerent war craft are permitted to enter harbors of neutral countries).

Conquest Not Recognized

In Eyes Of United States Government Poland Still Exists

Washington. — The United States has refused to recognize the disappearance of Poland, which State Secretary Cordell Hull termed "the victim of force used as an instrument of national policy."

He said this government would continue to recognize Count Jerzy Potocki as Polish ambassador to Washington, and that the United States ambassador to Poland, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, would remain near the Polish government, now centred in Paris.

DECLARES HITLER IS PLANNING TO BREAK UP EMPIRE

Toronto.—Senator C. P. Beaubien of Montreal, in an address before the Empire club of Toronto, warned that "if Hitler wins, the British Empire will be smashed and its parts cut adrift."

The Senator believed there would be "no dearth of Canadians of French and British descent who will be drawn to the side of their old mother countries by the thin red line that marks their veins and springs from their hearts."

Should Germany defeat the Allies there is but one nation that can still stand up to Hitler dominating Europe, the senator said.

"That power is the American nation. That day, the United States must fight. That day, the United States may take up the cudgels for Canada as well as for themselves.

"But if they do so—is it possible to conjecture that the United States will fight without us? If that contingency was not desirable and below Canada's pride and dignity, does anyone conceive that it would long be possible? Can anyone contend that we would then fight more freely and with better chance of success?"

The senator said that a few weeks ago in Paris he had spoken to General Delattre de Tassigny, chief of staff of the French superior council of war. The general had told him that "Hitler has made his the old Bismarckian policy of the conquest of Great Britain and the partition of the British Empire."

The senator said that Hitler "overestimates the power which he controls in Germany" and "surely underestimates that wielded by his opponents."

Referring to German-Soviet co-operation, he claimed that "a slip in the company of the Russian bear may seal his (Hitler's) fate."

Hitler has ruined the Reich in building up his war machine, said the senator, for Germany now "is left without gold and without credit." Other "weaknesses" of the Hitler regime, he said, were:

That private industry has used all its reserves and credits because of excessive taxation.

That workmen get beggarly wages which nevertheless are subject to taxation and frequent "contributions."

Internment Camps

300 Persons Are Detained In Quebec, Ontario And Alberta

Ottawa.—Approximately 300 persons are now detained in three Canadian internment camps in Quebec, Ontario and Alberta, it was announced officially from the prime minister's office here.

In each case, detainment was effected by order of the justice minister, acting under authority of section 21 of the defence of Canada regulations.

Prior to detention, all facts in the case were reviewed by the minister of justice with the assistance of an advisory committee, the announcement said.

Generally speaking, those detained were apprehended on the ground they acted in a manner prejudicial to public safety.

Section 21 of the defence of Canada regulations empowers the minister of justice to detain any person if satisfied that detention is necessary to prevent "any particular person from acting in any manner prejudicial to the public safety or the safety of the state."

Any person detained by virtue of an order made under section 21 is deemed to be in legal custody.

Registration of enemy aliens is rapidly under way throughout the Dominion and in all provinces registrars have been appointed and cities and towns designated as points for registration, another announcement from the prime minister's office said.

A jury handed down a verdict of "accidental death" in connection with the demise of about twenty wild ducks near Cowley recently.

A new clerk, dictating a letter to a modern stenographer, was in doubt as to the use of a certain phrase, so he said to the young lady: "Do you retire a loan?" and the wistful-eyed one answered rather sleepily: "No, I sleep with mamma."

Miss Mildred Kastner, formerly on Fernie, won first prize in a hole-in-one golf competition at Vancouver recently. It was a hundred-yard toss with the iron, and she got first when she missed the hole by only a few inches. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milt Kastner.

Town and city councils through Alberta have received appeals from the Alberta government, asking for a share of fire insurance business. It is not the only attempt made by our government to do someone else out of a job. Personally, they'd never get ours if they offered to carry it free of charge. The principle is not right.

It is said that Bill Gates and Tony Vejprava are anxiously looking forward to the celebration of their forty-fifth birthdays, their twenty-fifth year in hockey and baseball, and the umpteenth anniversary of their venture into matrimony. Anyhow, they're both going strong and hard to beat. Their sidekicker, Hank Levasseur, of Pincher Creek, says he's still with 'em.

On Saturday forenoon last a car, leading a trailer, passed east through Blairmore at a terrific speed, estimated by some eyewitnesses as at least 75 miles per hour. Crossing the spur near the telephone office, the outfit leaped a distance of at least twelve feet before regaining terra firma, and then swayed considerably in the direction of what should be its fate. We have absolutely no sympathy for the chronic speedster. In this particular instance, it is very fortunate that school children were not scattered over the highway crossings, but as it was, quite a number of adult pedestrians had to jump some to avoid being hit.

We can imagine Hitler saying to Stalin "I said a lot of nasty things about you and I want to make amends, so I want you to take three-fifths of Poland." He has already stopped the circulation of "Mein Kampf" in German libraries, because he wants his people to forget what he said therein about Stalin and the Russians. —H. C., in High River Times.
